Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Illinois Red Man Editor Illinois Red Man: On Red Man s day at the World s Fair, September 17th, while waiting in my carriage to participate in the great parade in honor of our Order, I was taken violently ill and it became necessary to lose the delights of this glorious day and spend my time in the Emergency Hospital, much to my regret and loss. Since that time I have been exceedingly ill, which will explain why I have been so late in handling in this paper. In this connection I request your readers to take into brotherly consideration the fact that this letter was written from a sick bed, before they notice the lack of detail necessary in a just description of a great convention. The fifty-seventh Great Sun session of the Great Council of the United States will be remembered a session of good nature, short sessions, without contest in the elections and without the slightest jar to mar its proceedings, it being four days of one continual love-feast. A large majority of the members of the Great Council met in St. Louis the Saturday preceding the Great Council session and proceeded to St. Joseph on the Red Men s Missouri Pacific Flyer. The trip was delightful and on the next day we made a stop at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. The train was met by Col. Duncan, the commander of the Post, and his officers, and our party was escorted to the beautiful parade grounds, where a guard mount was had, after which a band concert was given by the regimental band. How the lusty throats of our boys did respond...
