LA WALL NO history of Scranton and its prominent men would be complete without Elmer H. Law all. Holds the big job of treasurer for the International Correspondence Schools and has held it almost since the company was founded. Does the work so well that he has become as much a part of the institution as the name itself No man is better liked by the thousands of employes of the schools and no man is fairer and squarer in his treatment of them. Prominent in Wilkes-Barre, too, where he has his home. Finds time to play golf for recreation and few men on the Country Club links here or in Wilkes-Barre play a better game. WILLIAM P. HUESTER THE middle letter stands for Prince, and every one over on the South Side will tell you that William P. Huester is a Prince of Good FellowB --only they all call him Billy. Up at City Hall where he has been doing favors for everybody for years, there is no one more popular than Billy Huester. And sing--well the Junger Mannerchor would not be as good as it is if Billy's voice was not there with the music stuff. Many is the time that same voice put the pep into the boys of the Scranton baseball team--as it boomed away in the stand. As for ten pins--well the ten pin that can stay standing when Billy heaves the ball down the alley, has not...
