Reviews

An incredibly wonderful ebook with perfect and lucid explanations. I really could comprehend every little thing using this written e publication. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

This was a plain declaration by a Radical organ, and may be accepted as stating the position of the majority, that appropriate legislation ought to be passed to enforce the Amendment when it became a part of the original law. The second section was, however, declared to be the most important--the statement that the North would gain 10 representatives and that the South would lose 10, making a total gain of 20 for the North, if the Amendment were adopted, and just the opposite if rejected, being inserted in every issue of the paper from September 20 to October 10, 1866. In an editorial on Secretary Brownings letter, it was declared that the independence of the States within their appropriate and constitutional spheres was not to be interfered with, though the Federal Government (Congress) would decide as to the spheres. If Congress could say what were the appropriate and constitutional spheres of the States, was it not practically admitting the statements made in Brownings letter In this same editorial it was stated that so long as the States provided for the protection of life, liberty and property of the citizens the Federal Government would be relieved of an obligation, but the opinion was expressed that federal protection was imperatively needed in certain States.
