Isinglass Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 102 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.3in. Passing Judgment is a compact collection of twelve short stories about people who deliver their own form of justice. These are tales about breaking the rules and seeking retribution, especially when the law fails. Bad guys sometimes do the right thing. Desperate good guys cross the line. In the end, justice is blind she doesn't care which side of the law a person lands as long as the scales get balanced. Inside you'll find stories about: A Senator collects historic guns, each responsible for shooting a sitting President. Guilt drives a desperate man to seek redemption through acts of violence. In search of his true identity, a man makes a fatal lapse in judgement. African mythology intersects with an escaped slave imprisoned in a strange world. Social scandal, great wealth, and a bizarre bequest point to old murder. After an error releases a predator, a detective crosses the line to stop the killing. A lottery ticket bought on her birthday propels Ivanka's future sideways. The assassin sent to eradicate a target, discovers he doesn't want to pull the trigger. An orphan journeys home to seek retribution for a mother gone missing. Law enforcement holds itself responsible for the murderous actions of a young man. Bethany's dull marriage takes on new worth when a gunman steps off the elevator. Old acts of violence bring together two men in a reciprocal act of retribution. Excerpts: Mitch shook out his hands, watched mud and slime splatter against the hard packed dirt. After damn near six hours of slogging through bottomland, he'd found a road. He hiked up one canvas pant leg and inspected the three tiny pairs of puncture wounds on his calf. Almost delicate, the trio of red perforations...
