Not illustrated. 1808 Excerpt: . . . some that tete d tctes which the pretty men might be contrived and brought about in places less public than Kensington-gardens, the two parks, the high roads, or the streets of London. Having thus combined, as I flatter myself that I have, the solid enjoyments of vice, with the useful appearances of virtue, I think myself entitled to the thanks of my country in general, and to that just praise which Horace gives to the author, qui miscuit utile dulci: or in English, who joins the useful with the agreeable. No. 190. THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1756. I Can remember, when I was a young man at the university, being so much affected with that very pathetic speech, which Ovid has put into the mouth of Pythagoras, against eating the flesh of animals, that it was some time before I could bring myself to our college mutton, again, without some inward doubt whether I was not making myself an accomplice to a murder. My scruples remained unreconciled lo the committing so horrid a meal, till upon serious reflection I became convinced of its legality, from the general order of nature, w ho has instituted the universal prey ing upon the weaker as one of her first principles; though to me it has ever appeared an incomprehensible mystery, that sue who could not be restrained by any want of materials from furnishing supplies for the support of her various offspring, should lay them under the...
