Human Flesh: (5th Stage of Matter) (Paperback)

By Therlee Gipson

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Introduction Flesh is the soft substance of the body of a living thing. Humans are classified as Mammals. In the classical physics observed in everyday life in the Universe has the flesh of all mammals, it is said to be composed of matter; this includes atoms (and thus molecules) and anything made up of these. Nevertheless, quarks and leptons together make up ordinary matter, and their interactions contribute to the effective volume of the composite particles that make up all mammals matter. The 5th stage of matter is considered flesh. Therefore, Matter exists in five stages (or phases): solid liquid gas plasma Flesh In the context of human flesh as in all mammals, mass is not an additive quantity, in the sense that one can add the rest masses of particles in a system to get the total rest mass of the system. Thus, in relativity usually a more general view is that it is not the sum of rest masses, but the energy-momentum tensor that quantifies the amount of matter. This tensor gives the rest mass for the...
