Larry N. Smith, M.D. Paperback. Condition: New. 682 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 1.9in. The American Healthcare system is at a crossroads. On the eve of sweeping health reform, the United States is preparing to embark on the largest expansion of health insurance in its history while simultaneously trying to recover from the slowest period of economic expansion. The economic and political stakes of health policy could not be higher. As the baby boomer population continues to enter the Medicare eligibility phase of their lives, scarcity of physicians and hospital care could reverse the improvements in quality of life enjoyed by Americans for over a century. How did America get to this point? Was it a random set of events? Could the current health care crisis that drove the first comprehensive health reform initiative be avoided? Seeking answers to these questions, Physician Larry N. Smith, M. D. and Professor of Health Finance Stephen T. Parente, Ph. D. review the historic moments that drove the field of medicine from ancient health art to the modern industrial colossus it has become in Medicines Journey through Ignorance, Bigotry, Poverty, and Politics to Americas Uninsured: Historically Based Solutions for Todays Healthcare Problems. Representing the medical and economic professions, Smith and Parente offer a unique, research-backed view of the way health care has changed over the centuries. Beginning with Hippocrates' foundations of Western medicine in ancient Greece, the authors carry the reader through the centuries to 20th century America, where a progressive movement pushed government to play a central role in health care delivery. The rich history of the battle for health reform spanning over 100 years, reveals the political undercurrents that ultimately made possible the social and political conditions that enabled the passage of President Barack Obama's Affordable Care Act (ACA). After the diagnosis is...
