It did, indeed, with praiseworthy courage, assail and often overthrow gigantic wrongs. At its stern behest, the gladiatorial contests were discontinued, and the fierce thirst for blood which had so long characterized the Roman populace, was no longer gratified with the sight of the death struggles of innocent men, contending, for their amusement, with wild beasts, or brutal savages. Under its more humane sway the sick stranger was no longer left to die in loneliness and agony, for the dewes of death were wiped from his brow by the fair hands of woman, now first taught her mission on earth, that of ministering angel; the poor slave no longer clanked his chain in despair, for Christian sympathy had reached him in his low estate, and the wealth of Christian men, and even the endowments of Christian churches were sacrificed without regret, to secure his freedom. But though the due meed of..
