He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches (Rev. 2:29 NASB) A prophetic call is going out to the Body of Christ. The Holy Spirit is calling for a return to holy living in the fear of the Lord, through obedience to His Word. It is time to pull out all the stops and be completely and unreservedly sold out to God. This is what He requires of you and me. He does not want us to be halfhearted or lukewarm. He wants us fired-up and ready to obey Him. This is a prophetic call to return to the things that matter to God. He is waiting with open arms of grace and compassion. He will never turn away from us if we will return to Him with every fiber of our being. Today, many are seeking an easy Christianity that requires no accountability and makes no demands. Many have forgotten the holy requirements of God that propel true believers into higher intensities of His presence and power. Honor, reverence, awe, relationship and fellowship, faithfulness, loyalty, obedience, humility, and devotion are scriptural keys to this deeper walk with the Lord. Yet, many of these radical and life-altering principles are being minimized, disregarded, and even rejected in some Christian circles. In these pages, we rediscover their timeless value and irrefutable necessity for the true disciple of the Lord Jesus.
