Excerpt: . . . having a constant supply of mash on the range the chickens are always able to get plenty of feed and a hopper of this kind is a splendid investment. If a dry mash is used for the small chicks in the brooder house an open box hopper along the types shown in Figure 13 but much smaller in size is very satisfactory. Such a hopper should be about 12 inches wide, 18 inches long and 4 to 5 inches deep. It will be necessary to put this hopper right on the floor for the small chicks in order that they can get into the box but as the chicks grow larger it can be raised up off the floor to keep the litter from getting into the feed. Baby chicks just hatched should be fed by hand in open troughs until they are large enough to jump up...

Reviews

It is one of my personal favorite books. This is certainly for anyone who states there had not been a worth studying. I found out this ebook from my i and dad advised this pdf to learn.
